Our Guards are always close

Mountain biking, horse riding, boot camping, or hiking; all are great for your health, but not always without danger. Unfortunately it is not always possible to get somebody to accompany you, and mishaps may happen at any given moment.

Just in case these mishaps cause more than just a minor injury, it's reassuring to know that X-Guard will always be there with you. When you unexpectedly have an accident while exercising and find yourself unable to move, X-Guard will automatically call for help. In other cases you can press the alarm button yourself and send immediate assistance to your location that way.
